Correspondence of the Richmond Dispetch.]

Mrs. Thorpe, of Wilmington, N. C., whose romantic and eventful marriage at Fernandina, Fla., was reported in Sunday's Dispetch, is now in Petersburg, the guest of her brother-in-law, Mr. Joseph B. Worth.

The victim of Mr. Hubby's alleged violence is a very pretty, attractive, and modest young widow. She spent nearly the entire winter in this city and received a great deal of attention, making a host of warm friends, who were startled beyond measure at her singular experience in the ure at her singular experience in the LEAVING PLORIDA HASTILY.

Mrs. Thorpe arrived here on Friday morning on the early train from the South. The marriage into which she was forced occurred on Wednesday. As soon as she possibly could she secured a conveyance, drove thirty-five miles across the country to the railroad, and started at once for Petersburg, which she duly reached Friday morning. Here she is safe from the pursuit of the man who made her his wife by violence, and it is now understood here among her friends that the lawyers will soon be able to free her from her embarrassing position. THE STORY TRUE.

While Mrs. Thorpe is not discussing the pisode except with those who are intimately connected with her by family ties, he nevertheless confirms, in substance the tory which has been printed. She affirms and emphatically that Hubby's threats of indence so terrified her that sie was atraid to the marriage ceremony.

As he had his pistol in his pocket she was afraid to disobey his orders, and so apparently consented, having made up her mind, however, that she would leave him as soon as there was any possibility of flight. She escaped, and now hundreds of mails separate them.

A PRETTY DEUNETTE.

Mrs. Thorpe has been a widow for nearly three years. Her husband was a young and talented Englishman, who held a responsible position in Wilmington with the Atlantic-Coast Lane and was also nighly considered as a musiciam. She has two children. In Wilmington she is highly connected and has many friends. She is brunetted in style, petite of figure, and has most

A NOVEL AND INTERESTING CASE.

There was only one case before his Honor Judge Bernard this morning, but it was one which the Judge characterized as very complicated and embracing points which so far as he knew, had never been decided by the Court of Appeals of Virginia.

The case referred to was that of Mrs. Bettie Miller against Edward Wilson (colored). Captain F. R. Lassiter appeared as counsel for the plantiff. and defendant was represented by Mr. W. H. Jones.

The facts in the case are substantially as follows: In 1885 Ned Wilson executed two negotiable notes of $70 cach. Mrs. Miller brought suit in the Mayor's Court upon one of these notes, and the Mayor rendered indement in favor of Mrs. Miller. A motion was then made before the Mayor for a new trial, which was granted subsequent to the rendition of said judgment. Mrs. Miller then brought suit against Wilson on the other note, whereupon counsel for Wilson gave notice of a new trial upon the judgment rendered. The Mayor consolidated the two cases upon the new trial, and dismissed the same for want of jurisdiction, whereupon an appeal was taken to the Hustings Court and is now pending. The case having been ably argued to-day by the counsel named, Judge Bernard now has it under consideration, and will render his decision in a few days
